High Performance

Ultra High Performance

PZero System is the world's first system utilising directional and asymmetric ultra high performance tyres. Designed for use in tandem or separately in the case of Asimmetrico, according to the type of car, conditions of use and driving style.

Its racing construction offers superior torsional strength, grip and steering response under stress.

Tread pattern

Asimmetrico : The asymmetric design features a block pattern inner section, a central area with two continuous ribs and a semi-slick outer section.

Direzionale : The directional design overcomes the problem of wet grip and aquaplaning associated with high performance cars fitted with wide-section front tyres. PZero Direzionale maximises water expulsion, leaving a drier surface for the rear Asimmetrico
